Veneers (Impression)

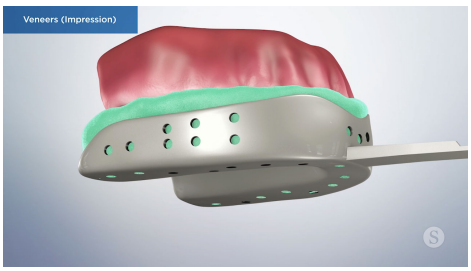

Veneers cover the front surface of a tooth, and are typically done to improve the appearance of a patient's smile. Veneers usually require multiple appointments to complete.

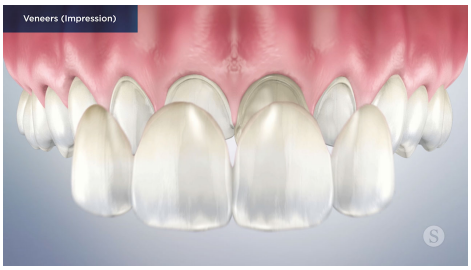

At your first appointment, your doctor will take an impression of your teeth. A dental laboratory will create a model of your mouth, which will be used to create your temporary and final veneers.

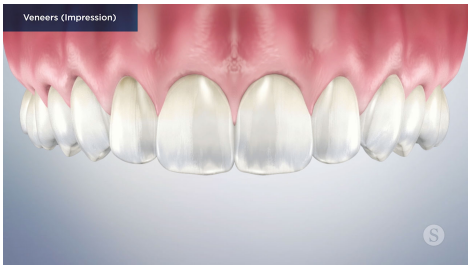

During your next visit, your teeth are prepared for the veneers.

A second impression is taken, and temporary veneers are placed over your teeth until the final ones are ready.

At a following appointment, your doctor will remove the temporary veneers, and bond the final veneers into place.

Your teeth are restored to optimal shape and function, and your smile will be greatly improved.
